Dear Sir or Madam,

Submission of Evidence

Please find enclosed the following items of evidence:

1. 48 page personal medical and family case-history entitled: Special Operations in Medical Research.
2. Copy of my Brain-MRI scan made at St. Thomas' Hospital, London, on 02/10/2008 (plus photocopy of the original disc-face).

I had previously submitted an earlier version of item 1 to the Metropolitan Police in 2003. The Metropolitan Police made no constructive comments on the allegations made in that earlier report, and referred me to the local police force in Staffordshire, to whom I therefore made the same submission shortly afterwards. However, I later learned from my sister that Scotland Yard had sent officers to question her with regard to my allegations (I presume that this occurred in 2003 or 2004). I have no information regarding the possibility of any continuing investigation.

The response from the Staffordshire Police was that, as there did not appear to be any prima facie evidence in my original report to support my allegations, there was no prospect of a serious investigation to pursue.

I believe that such prima facie evidence is now revealed in item 2 of this submission, to which I therefore direct your attention. As far as I am aware, there has been as yet no formal corroboration of this from the medical profession; that is in spite of my having received a consultation over the scan from a neurologist at Guy's Hospital, London, in 2009. Possible reasons for this reticence are suggested in the Postscript of the above report.

With particular reference to the 26 image-sequence which comprises 'Series 7' of the scan, I understand that the evidence is now clear and distinct, even perhaps to a layperson. As such it provides essential retrospective confirmation of the allegations made to both police forces in 2003, but which both clearly felt compelled to ignore at that time.

The evidence is also published online, including selected images from Series 7 of the MRI scan, at: http://www.somr.info/report

Yours faithfully,

Michael S. Jones
